

PINE TREE PLANTING in the Elizabethtown District of the Shawnee National Forest is accomplished by machine and by hand. Tree planting machines are used in the level country and trees are planted by hand in areas where a machine could not be used. The pine seedlings are planted in rows six feet apart and the little trees are placed every five feet. At left, Melvin Rendleman drives tractor pulling the tree planter, with Argus Spivey setting the seedlings in the ground. The planter includes a plow that cuts a trench, the seedling is then set by hand and on rear of planter are two rubber tired wheels that press the soft earth around the young pine. About 7,000 seedlings are planted per day with this method. At right an unidentified member of a hand-planting crew presses earth around a young seedling just placed in a hole cut by a trenching hand tool. Average hand-planting per man per day is 600 seedlings.

Newsmen Tour Elizabethtown District of Shawnee Forest

Group Inspects All Activities Of Ranger Area

Friday morning at 8:30 approximately 20 newspaper representatives from southern Illinois and Indiana and other interested persons met at the office of the district ranger of the Elizabethtown District, Shawnee National Forest, to begin an all-day tour of a large portion of the Elizabethtown district of the forest.

The tour, in charge of A. Claude Ferguson, District Ranger, returned to the office shortly before 5 o'clock in the afternoon after traveling over many miles of gravel road by bus, or rough fire trails in jeeps and walking more miles where even a jeep couldn't travel.

All phases of the duties of the men and women looking out for the best interests of the forest areas were explained and demonstrated.

Ranger Ferguson had lined up a day's program that included the inspection of water management, pine tree thinning, wildlife management, tree planting, both by hand and by machine, fire fighting, fire lookout system, and recreational areas.

Belong to People

And about 12:30 the tired and hungry group stopped at Karber's Ridge where a bountiful family-style dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Aid society.

At the start of the trip Ranger Ferguson stressed that the forests belong to the people and he and all others in the service were dedicated to protecting "your forests."

"The major purpose of this trip is to acquaint you, the press, with the activities on a typical ranger district of a National Forest. Then you, we hope, will acquaint the public of our stewardship of their trust," Ferguson declared. He pointed out that the forest program is a long-range one "for the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run."

Figures to show that the forest program is paying its own way were released. Pines planted 17 years ago have been harvested and sold at $2.00 per cord.

Yearly Crop of Pines
Cost of planting the pines was $14.31 per acre 17 years ago and figuring 3 per cent interest on the money, the investment is now $23.61. Three cords per acre have been cut and sold, bringing in $6.00. Nine cords per acre remain with a value of $18.00, making the worth total $24.00, showing a profit of 39 cents per acre. "And the profit will be larger as the years go by as the pines are reproducing and there will be a yearly crop in the future," Ferguson stated.

Much of the land now in pine forest was "too poor to grow trees," George Smith of the Soil Conservation service said, and demonstrated water management that had stopped the rapid runoff following heavy rains and the carrying away of top soil.

"It takes nature about 500 years to build one inch of good top soil. But one inch of soil can be carried away overnight following a hard rain where the land is unprotected," Smith said.

Wildlife Program

Working in close cooperation with the forest service, the Soil Conservation people have worked out plans to stop erosion, are building up the land and trees are now growing on what was practically barren land not many years ago. Of unusual interest to hunters is the wildlife program being carried on in the national forest area. Bill Casey, game biologist, released a dozen wild turkeys and the

Mrs. Florence Seibert Wins Friday Award For Harrisburg Days

Mrs. Florence Seibert of 101 Midkiff street won the Harrisburg Days award yesterday afternoon in the drawing on the south side of the square.

She has her choice of a diamond ring or a month's supply of groceries and this morning Mrs. Seibert said that although she had not made up her mind definitely, she probably would take the groceries.

She said she and her husband were out of town late yesterday and did not know she had won until nine o'clock last night.

Everybody was eligible to register for the prize in stores participating in the Harrisburg Days event. There was no obligation.

Today the three-day Harrisburg Days sales event winds up. Big attraction today, outside of the bargains, is a hog guessing contest. The hog was on the square and guessing continued until around 2 p. m. The weight guesses were made on blanks inside of the participating stores. The person guessing closest got the hog.

Airman Richard Fritts is Killed In the Far East

Parents Informed Of Death in Helicopter Crash

Airman 3/C Richard C. Fritts, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Fritts of 1102 South Roosevelt street, has been killed in a helicopter crash in the Far East, his parents were informed late yesterday by telegram.

His parents are certain he was one of three killed March 28 on Formosa. A United Press bulletin of that day from Taipei, Formosa, of which they have a clipping, declared that a U. S. Air Force helicopter crashed four miles south of Tainan, killing the pilot and two crew members and injuring a passenger.

They said their son's home base was the 39th Air Rescue station in Japan but that they had received word from their son that he and his two buddies had arrived in Formosa around March 10 on a tour of duty and that they had received two letters from there since that time. He was a crew member on a helicopter.

Young Fritts was graduated from Harrisburg Township high school in 1955 and enlisted in the Air Force in January of 1956. He received his training at Parks Air Force Base in California, then was stationed at San Marcos, Texas, before being sent for schooling at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Texas, the same base where his father had received Air Force schooling in World War II.

In high school the youth was active in the music departments. He played trumpet in the band and sang in the high school quartet, octet and chorus, taking part in state contests.

He has two sisters, Linda, 14, and Treva, 10, and a two-year-old brother, Jeffrey.

His father is employed by the Pankey bakery.

Reporters Stopped

Traffic Cops Look the Other Way When President's Car Speeds By

WASHINGTON (UP)—If President Eisenhower wants to continue breaking the speed laws while motoring to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, not a traffic cop is about to stop him.

But that definitely doesn't apply to reporters and photographers who sometimes have to travel close to 100 miles an hour to keep the Chief Executive's car in sight.

County, state police and safety officials preferred to look the other way Friday when the President drove to his Pennsylvania farm at speeds exceeding town and open highway limits.

The swift-moving caravan included four White House cars, among them the President's limousine and three other cars bearing reporters and photographers.

Just north of Rockville, Md., the procession was doing 60 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone when into the scene moved a Montgomery County police car. The officers ignored the President's sleek limousine, but they ordered reporters to slow down.

"Why don't you slow down the President?" the reporters shouted. "Because he's got four bodyguards with him," the police said, and the cruiser held the press cars down to 55 miles an hour until they reached the county line. Mr. Eisenhower was far out of sight by this time.

It took the reporters about 20 miles and speeds close to 100 miles an hour to rejoin the caravan at Frederick, Md.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty reserved comment and seemed to wish he had not heard about the incident. The National Safety Council and the American Automobile Association took the same position.

Goodman Pleads Innocent When Arraigned in Court

Willie Goodman, arraigned on a charge of possessing liquor for sale, pleaded innocent when arraigned yesterday before County Judge Trafton Dennis.

Goodman was described as the operator of the colored War Dads club, raided this week.

Scratching In Election Tuesday?

Watch Voting For Constable, Assistant Supervisor and J. P.

Voters in next Tuesday's township elections who wish to scratch their ballots in races where more than one office is to be filled are advised to mark individual squares in these contests if they wish to vote for as many as are to be elected.

For instance, in Harrisburg township, there are five assistant supervisors, five justices of the peace and five constables to be elected. The candidates in these offices are running as a group, and do not individually oppose the candidate listed opposite on the ballot.

Usually, a voter scratches by marking the circle at the top of his party choice, then crosses over and marks for one or more individual candidates on the opposing ticket. By this he votes for all candidates of his party except where he specifically crosses over to the other party ticket.

This rule does not apply where there are multiple offices to be filled, as mentioned above. If the voter crosses the party line in voting for one candidate where more than one is to be elected, the vote is for that candidate only, and others are eliminated.

Scratching is a legal practice and is carried on extensively in local elections.

If you want to scratch Tuesday, note how many are to be elected in the multiple office groups and mark for all of your choice.

The Rev. Howard Todd Taylor Resigns Raleigh Pastorate; to Move to Alton

The Rev. Howard Todd Taylor has resigned as pastor of the Raleigh First Baptist church effective April 28, and will assume his new work as pastor of the Calvary Baptist church in Alton the first Sunday in May.

The Rev. Taylor, his wife, Mavis, son, Stephen 11, and daughter, Nancy 9, will move to Alton the last of April.

He has been pastor of the church at Raleigh for four and a half years—longer than any pastor in the church's 120-year history.

During Rev. Taylor's pastorate the church has undergone its greatest expansion. The Sunday school enrollment has increased from 110 to 367 and 176 have been added to the church rolls—128 by baptism and the remainder by letter. The church itself has been air conditioned, natural gas heating installed, additional class rooms, pastor's study, library, rest rooms, modern kitchen, nursery, new Baptistery and many other improvements installed and a new parking area purchased.

The budget for Raleigh Baptist church has doubled during Rev. Taylor's pastorate and mission gifts have increased from 5 per cent to 35 per cent. Last year the church led the State association in per capita baptisms, one for every 4.5 members.

Last year the Raleigh church and Rev. Taylor were recognized as the outstanding rural church and pastor of the year by the Illinois Baptist association, the first time the honor has been bestowed on a pastor in this state.

In 1956 the Raleigh church had the only Standard Sunday school in Saline county, and this year is one of the first three advanced standard Sunday schools in the Southern Baptist convention and the only one in Illinois.

Rev. Howard Todd Taylor

Rev. Taylor and the Raleigh church organized a mission at New Haven and it has grown rapidly with 50 in Sunday school last Sunday.

Rev. Taylor is the present moderator of Saline Baptist association and Mission Board chairman of the Saline association.

A pulpit committee composed of the deacons of Raleigh Baptist church at present is accepting applications for the vacancy when Rev. Taylor leaves.

Congress Also Preparing New Housing Bill

President Orders Minimum Down-Payment Reduced

WASHINGTON (UP)—Homebuyers had some good news today from the White House and Congress.

President Eisenhower has relaxed credit requirements for homebuyers and a strong drive is on in Congress to make it easier for them to get mortgage money.

Mr. Eisenhower Friday ordered the minimum down-payment on FHA-financed homes reduced by 2 per cent to the lowest level permitted by law: 5 per cent on the first $9,000 and 25 per cent on amounts over that.

Mr. Eisenhower also announced that federal home loan bank board regulations will be modified to enable insured savings and loan associations to buy into mortgages originated by other insured associations.

Relaxes Restrictions

The White House said this rule would relax present restrictions requiring most associations to invest in mortgages on homes located within 50 miles of their principal office. The idea is to make more mortgage funds available in areas where they are now inadequate.

The President acted a few hours after a House banking subcommittee completed action on an omnibus housing bill that would go far beyond administration recommendations in pumping funds into the "tight" mortgage market.

Albert Rains (D-Ala) subcommittee chairman, termed the President's interest cut a "minor" step in the right direction. Two other subcommittee members—Rep. Gordon L. McDonough (R-Calif) and Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio)—agreed with Rains that the President should have done so "months ago."

They also predicted that Congress—despite threats of a presidential veto—would approve use of one billion dollars from the GI life insurance reserve fund for veterans' home loan mortgages. This was the most controversial provision included in the subcommittee's omnibus bill.

Overwhelming Okay Seen

McDonough said the move was necessary to ease the "tight" mortgage market and predicted it would win such overwhelming congressional approval Mr. Eisenhower would not veto it.

The omnibus bill, which is slated for full committee approval next Tuesday, would also:

—Create a "veterans preference" in the FHA program. Veterans' down-payments would be cut 50 per cent below down-payments required of non-veterans. Veterans' financing charges would be held to 5 per cent, with the government absorbing the additional 12 per cent insurance premium charged other FHA home buyers.

—Provide the Federal National Mortgage Association with an additional 1 billion dollars in borrowing authority, or 500 million dollars more than the administration requested. These funds would be used to purchase government-backed mortgages from lenders who want more ready cash.

—Permit some further lowering in down-payments for non-veterans. This was the only feature in which the subcommittee's bill fell short of administration recommendations.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Khrushchev's Son-In-Law Collects Data On American Farm Workers; Bankers Lobby Succeeded In Squelching Patman's Probe Of Tight Money;
Any Probe Of High Interest Rates Is Now Stymied.

WASHINGTON. — U. S. officials were greatly interested to learn that Soviet Dictator Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexander Startsev, walked unannounced into the offices of the National Agricultural Workers Union in Washington, D. C., the other day and started asking questions about American farm workers.

Startsev, whose official title is first secretary of the Soviet embassy, was accompanied by another Russian diplomat identified as Victor Kompletov. They explained casually that they represented "one of the embassies in Washington."

When NAWU President H. L.
Mitchell asked which one, Startsev hesitated, then replied: "The Soviet embassy."

They explained that they would like to know about the problems of agricultural workers. Mitchell gave them some background on his small union which was started by southern sharecroppers in 1934.

"What" asked Kompletov, "is the composition of agricultural workers?"

"What do you mean by composition?" asked Mitchell.

"He means race or nationalities," explained Startsev.

Mitchell said most agricultural workers were Negroes in the south and Mexicans in the southwest.
The dictator's son-in-law then wanted to know about the membership requirements. Mitchell explained that any farm worker 16 years old or over could join the union.

Startsev asked about the number of members and was told only 50,000 of the nation's 2,000,000 farm workers were organized.

"Why are the not in unions?"
asked the Russian.

Mitchell explained that the workers were scattered and were not covered by protective legislation. That was one reason, he said, that union headquarters were located in Washington rather than in a more rural part of the U. S.

The two Russians asked a few more routine questions, accepted some union literature and started to leave. Mitchell inquired, as they started out the door, whether they were agricultural specialists.

"No," replied Startsev, who spoke fluent English. "We are interested in all agricultural problems."

Mitchell reported the visit to the State Department which was at a loss to explain it.

Note — Since Khrushchev took charge of the Kremlin, he has personally dealt with Russian agricultural problems, has demanded more crop production, and approved the exchange of Russian and American farmers in 1955. His son-in-law in Washington has the reputation of being a studious, hard-working diplomat. American air officials who have negotiated with him say he's a straightforward, tough negotiator.

BANKERS LOBBY OPERATES

While the Senate Rackets committee was getting the headlines, White House pressure was being put on congressional leaders regarding an investigation into something far more fundamental—the cost of living, tight money, and the extent of inflation.

The President has publicly asked for authority to appoint a committee of bankers, finance experts et al. to investigate the tight money policy. But one day after he returned from Bermuda, he was informed of a roadblock erected by one of the most respected men on Capitol Hill—Congressman Wright Patman of Texas. Patman proposed that Congress conduct its own tight money probe, argued that an investigation dominated by bankers would only endorse the tight money policies already adopted by the banks.

President Eisenhower, on his return from Bermuda, got this bad news from GOP congressional leaders at a closed-door White House session.

"We are about 30 votes short of a majority in the House," reported GOP Leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts. Martin and assistant leader Charles Halleck of Indiana explained that Speaker Sam Rayburn had "lined up" the Democrats solidly behind the planned probe by Patman.

Ike launched some caustic criticism of the Patman probe as a "political" scheme to embarrass the administration. His own plan to appoint a bipartisan commission to study fiscal policies, he contended, was a more objective and judicial approach.

BANKING PROBE IS DEAD

Joe Martin, however, reckoned without the bankers' lobby. He did not know that banking friends of the administration were at that very moment putting the heat on Congress. Long-distance phone calls had gone out to bankers in southern cities nearest Washington to come to Washington immediately and switch Democratic votes.

As a result, bankers from North and South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Tennessee were flocking through the halls of Congress even during the White House conference, calling congressmen off the floor, telling them to vote against the Patman probe.

The bankers' lobby was successful. Thirty-eight Democrats, largely from the south, deserted Speaker Rayburn to vote with the White House against a congress-sional probe of high interest rates.

This means there will be no investigation of tight money at all.
For Democratic leaders are so irked at the high-pressure tactics of the bankers lobby they will never put through the bankers investigation proposed by Ike.

NOTICE

The Official Board of the Methodist Church wishes to take this means to respectfully call the attention of the public to the parking problem around the church. There have been times when people attending funerals or other church meetings were forced to park a long distance from the church because the spaces around the church were filled with cars in no manner connected with the service in progress in the church. We feel it is necessary that these spaces be reserved at all times for services at the church.

We regret that we are unable to provide parking space for everyone desiring it and we sincerely trust that you will understand our problem and cooperate with us.

Social and Personal Items

Mrs. W. B. Armstrong Hostess To Saline County Garden Club

Mrs. W. B. Armstrong of 211 N. Sherman, was hostess to the Saline County Garden club on Tuesday. Mrs. Michael Reshelter, president, presided over the business meeting. Roll call was answered by 28 members each with "something new in my garden." Many have new shrubs or flowers, but some confessed to weeds.

Plans for the meeting of Region VII, held Thursday in the Presbyterian church, were completed. Members were requested to have all dues paid before the club federation dues are payable in April. Mrs. Bolen Perkins thanked her committee for their cooperation in the making of favors for the regional meeting.

Mrs. LeRoy Reese, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Ed Gaskins who presented a topic about "A Look at What's New in the Flower World." Mrs. Gaskins spoke of roses, especially the new climbing rose named "The Golden Shower." This is a winner of the American Rose award and brought the prize to a climbing rose after sixteen years lapse. Other roses mentioned were Midnight, Pink Luster, Lady Elgin and Summer-time, a rose which she had seen at the Sarasota Springs, Florida flower show. Other flowers were mentioned, but roses seemed to predominate. The picture of the White Lady rose bush, which Mrs. A. M. Hetherington sent from the Rose Tree Inn, of Tombstone, Arizona, during her recent visit there, was passed around and admired.

Mrs. Ray Durham, substituting for Mrs. Nelle Meyers, read a story, "The Garden Speaks," appropriate to the Lenten season. This is a beautiful story portraying the silent mystery of the tomb, the despair of lost hope and the joy of resurrection, with the light of faith and understanding shining forth as a symbol of the Easter season.

Announcement was made of a meeting to be held in the public library on April 23. The speaker will be Brockett Bates from S. I. U. who will show a film of Illinois state parks, where 176 million people were visitors last year. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Simon Sutton, Mrs. R. D. Brown and Miss Maude Barter. Mrs. Kenneth White and Mrs. Sam Cape were guests at this meeting.

Woman's Guild Circles Meet Wednesday

The circles of the Woman's Guild of the Presbyterian church met with the following hostesses on Wednesday at 2 p. m.

The Mary Seten circle met with Mrs. Oliver Woods.

The Nella Gregg circle met with Mrs. Lowden McCormick.

The Sarah Weidemann circle and the Carrie Wilson circle met at the church, with Mrs. Bruce Polk serving as hostess to the combined meeting.

The Bible study, "War and Peace," was given by Mrs. Clyde Benson, Mrs. Perry Moore and Mrs. Jesse Burley and the social education and action topic, "Who is My Neighbor," was given by Mrs. Gordon McGehee, Miss Grace Collier and Mrs. Walter Coulter. The year book of prayer was given by Mrs. Lowden McCormick, Mrs. Fred Gilbert and Mrs. Clarence Bosket.

All circles were reminded of the Presbyterian meeting to be held at Cairo on April 2. Refreshments were served following the business meeting.

Willie Robinson, well-known Cottage township farmer, returned home a few days ago from Wellborn Memorial hospital in Evansville, where he underwent surgery March 13 for double hernia.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID PAUL CHARLICK who were married Saturday, March 16, in Michigan. She is the former Miss Mickey McDermott of Harrisburg.

Miss Mickey McDermott, David Paul Charlick Wed in Michigan

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, March 16, Miss Mickey McDermott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDermott of Pontiac, Mich., formerly of Harrisburg, became the bride of David Paul Charlick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Charlick of Milford, Mich.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 8:00 p. m. at the West Highland Baptist church by Rev. Mel Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn., and Rev. George Boyd of Milford, with three hundred relatives and friends attending. Mr. Walter McRobbie of Detroit, Mich., was soloist and Mrs. Lloyd Charlick, of Milford played the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional satin and lace. The fitted bodice was accented with a high neckline and turned back collar trimmed with iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt featured a center panel of pleated nylon and ended in a chapel train at the back. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a double crown trimmed with iridescent sequins. She carried a white orchid with streamers of hyacinths on a white Bible.

Miss Sue McDermott, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and

Golden Circle Class

Meets With Mrs. Clara Evans

The Golden Circle class of the Ledford Baptist church met recently at the home of Mrs. Clara Evans. The president, Mrs. Lora Stubble, called the roll and each member answered with a scripture. Nine members were present.

The group sang "Footprints of Jesus," followed by a prayer led by Blanch Clarida. Marie Price took the devotion from the 77th Psalm. There were several requests for prayer and the meeting was dismissed with prayers of the members while they held hands, forming a prayer circle. Each member participated.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Hallie Waltz, with Mrs. Lillian Brentley leading the devotion.

In addition to those named, Mrs. Freda Jarrell, Mrs. Verna Lynch and Mrs. Elsie McDermott were present. Mrs. Nina Patton was pianist for the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin E. Cox Royal Oak, Mich., are visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Metcalf of 18 South Mill street where they will be guests until the first of next week. They are here to attend the funeral in Marion on Sunday of John Schurma whose wife, Louella, is a sister of Mr. Cox and Mrs. J. R. Metcalf. Mrs. Effie Myers, another sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cox of Hammond, Ind., stopped at the Metcalf home briefly this morning on their way to Marion to attend the funeral.

Gardening Hints

Plant Evergreens and Perennials, Spray Roses and Young Foliage

Plant evergreens, trees, shrubs, vines, roses and perennials whenever weather permits. Choose cloudy, still days and set out pansies, English daisies and other perennials from the cold-frames.

Spray young foliage of peonies regularly with Bordeaux mixture to check botrytis. Don't cut down more foliage more than necessary when cutting the flowers of daffodil and other bulbs.

Plant early gladioli after danger of hard frost is past. For succession, make later plantings at intervals of two weeks.

wore a gown of cotton blue chiffon over net and satin. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and her headpiece was also of yellow carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Arabella McDermott, Howell, Mich., Miss Pat McCurdy, Milford, and Mrs. Glenn Clark, Saline, Mich., wore gowns styled like that of the maid of honor, and they also wore and carried yellow carnations.

Ralph Charlick, Detroit, Mich., cousin of the bridegroom, was best man and Howard Charlick, Herb Boyes and Loren Lebo Jr., were groomsmen.

The ushers were Glenn Clark and Richard Charlick.

Mrs. Harold McDermott chose for her daughter's wedding an orchid dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlor with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Pollock and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Stephens in charge. Mrs. John Gee of Pana, cut and served the cake. Miss Arlene Franklin and Miss Sue Carpenter served punch and coffee, and Mrs. Warren Hoggar was in charge of the guest book. Miss Mary Lou Bedford, Mrs. Duane Applebee, Mrs. Richard Charlick and Mrs. Howard Armstrong displayed the gifts.

The bride's travel costume for the wedding trip was a royal blue silk dress with red and white accessories.

Following a trip through Georgia and other Southern states, Mr. and Mrs. David Paul Charlick are making their home at 2443 Lone Tree Rd., Milford.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Smith of Chicago are parents of a baby boy born Thursday at a hospital there. Mrs. Smith is the former Thelma Hobbs of Rosiclare and Harold formerly lived in Harrisburg. When Mr. Smith called his aunt, Mrs. Frank Parkinson, and Mr. Parkinson last night, the baby had not yet been named.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of RFD 2, Carrier Mills, are parents of a baby boy born yesterday at the Harrisburg hospital. He has been named John Darrell Andrew and weighed six pounds, 10 ounces at birth.

The body is in the care of the Union funeral home at West Frankfort pending funeral arrangements.

Newsman Tour Forest District

visitors watched the birds take off in flight for the wooded areas.

Friday's release ran the total to 285 wild turkeys released in the Elizabethtown district this year and in the past three years approximately 700 wild turkeys have been turned loose in the area.

"If our figuring is correct we should have a turkey hunting season about 1965. The plan calls for hunting of the birds ten years following the first release," Casey stated.

He stated he knew the turkeys were thriving as many had been seen in all parts of the many-acre Shawnee National forest area.

Extinguish Fire
Hiking over the rough trails the group came upon a crew of men planting pine seedlings by hand and later, in more level country, a two-man crew operating a tree planting machine was seen in action.

The greatest headache of forest rangers and their aides, fire, was sighted and a fire-fighting crew went to work and quickly extinguished it.

The fire had been set just before the visitors arrived and was burning merrily over a fairly large area. Several men moved in rapidly with hand rakes and shovels, building a fire break and then a jeep, with tanks and hose came along the spray the fire while a bulldozer shover fresh dirt over the burned area to make sure the blaze wouldn't break out again.

One of the most popular recreational areas in southeastern Illinois, Pounds Hollow Lake and the Pounds Escarpment, were visited. These picnic areas are within the Shawnee Forest Area and operated under the direction of Forest personnel.

At the close of the interesting and educational tour, Ranger Ferguson quickly reviewed the many duties of the forest service and again emphasized that he and all others in the service are working for the good of the people, that they "are stewards of the forests and lands, the greatest possessions that can be passed on to generations of the future."

Methodist Church Urges Cooperation On Parking Areas

The Methodist church official board has called attention to the public of the problem created by motorists using the parking areas around the church.

It was pointed out that there have been times when people attending church meetings and funerals have been forced to park a long distance from the church because the parking spaces on the church property were taken by others.

"We feel that it is necessary these spaces be reserved at all times for services at the church," the board stated. "We regret we are unable to provide parking space for everyone desiring it and we sincerely trust you will understand our problem and cooperate with us."

Items of Agricultural Interest

UNAWARE THAT MOVING DAY is at hand, some of Southern Illinois University's dairy cows stand contentedly behind the old dairy barn that is being torn down this week. The cows have been moved to a new SIU School of Agriculture Dairy Center one mile west of the old barn. Part of McAndrew Stadium is visible in the background. (SIU Photo Service)

Notes from Farm Adviser

By L. B. Kimmel

POPCORN SITUATION

The situation in popcorn for 1957 is complicated by surplus produced in the past two or three years. Today there is a supply in storage for which there is not a market. The present price for popcorn is about two cents per pound. Some bids are 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 cents, but since popcorn is a poor feed grain, you should have a contract if you expect to sell it next fall.

Two cents is not a very attractive price, and those who plan to shift corn and wheat acres to popcorn should have a market for it at harvest.

HAY PRODUCTION

Several farmers have listed hay for sale during the past few months, and most of it has been sold. Some was trucked out of the state to Texas and drought areas of the southwest.

With the build-up of beef cattle in Saline County, some of our own farmers are purchasing hay. We tried to locate hay March 21 for a cooper and called several who has hay listed last month and find that they are sold out. This may be the same situation next winter. Perhaps hay production would be more profitable than popcorn or other crops in long supply.

HAY BEANS

It would seem that soybeans for hay is one crop that a few producers should consider as a cash crop, especially in seed production.

When a farmer plants soybeans for hay such as Kingway or Virginia varieties, he cuts them for hay and looks for seed the next spring. It is true colored beans are 10 to 20 cents less when sold as commercial beans in the fall, but when you buy them for seed in the spring, they are often as much as $1.00 per bushel more. It would seem most anyone could store beans for $1.00 per bushel. You might consider planting hay beans for seed. A few in the county might want to try a limited seed business.

CATTLE NUMBERS

The cattle numbers are down about 3% in the last two years. In 1955 cattle and hog numbers were very high. They did not start to reduce until late in 1956. The market started up slightly with reduction in numbers.

Turkey production as well as broilers went up and took some of the market away from pork and beef, however, poultry is showing some signs of reduction which may reflect stronger total meat prices.

Price cycles from high to low are much longer in cattle than hogs and poultry depending upon the build-up in numbers of each class of livestock followed by a cut back in numbers when prices are unfavorable.

Drought in the the southwest and south caused much of the reduction. With recent winter and spring rains in this area, cattle and sheep prices have moved up. There may be some cattle being shipped back to this section to market range grasses. This could help total national beef and mutton prices.

POTASH FOR LEGUMES

Experiments have proven that clover, alfalfa and other legumes respond well to liberal amounts of potash. Seedlings of grass and legumes on soils low in potash produce much more grass than legumes.

When potash is added, the legumes crowd out the grasses or at least lower the amounts of grass in proportion to clovers in the hay or pasture mixture.

The secret of growing legumes seems to be lime, phosphate, potash and inoculate your clover seed at planting.

In the period from 1956 through 1960 the bituminous coal industry will spend around $1.5 billion in expansion of production and modernization and mechanization of its operations, according to a survey of Keystone Coal Buyers Manual.

Aging Tenderizes Meat

B. C. Breidenstein, head of the meats division at the University of Illinois says aging meat, which results in breakdown of cell tissue by enzyme action, tends to tenderize it and improve its flavor.

Meat is aged by holding it at a controlled temperature and humidity for a certain period. One method is to hold it at approximately 37 degrees and at a low relative humidity for three to five weeks. Another is to hold it at a high temperature and a high humidity for a shorter time. The latter method is being used successfully by some of the major food chain stores.

Beef can be aged most satisfactorily, but good results are often obtained with lamb. Proper aging of beef or lamb tends to increase the value of cuts from a palatability standpoint.

Breidenstein says aging of meat is desirable for the consumer as tenderness can be increased and flavor improved at little added cost.

Christmas Tree Profit May Equal Corn Profit

Christmas trees may be as profitable as corn, says W. F. Bulkeley, University of Illinois extension forester.

Considering the high cost of producing corn, a well managed Christmas tree planting may net more income per acre and do it on poorer soils. Christmas trees give a rapid turnover from land that is not paying its taxes now.

Bulkeley suggests three points to help farmers succeed with a

Two Illinois Men Named to FHA Advisory Group

Two Illinois men have been named members of the Farmers Home Administration State Advisory committee, according to an announcement by G. H. Reuss, State Director, Champaign. The appointments are effective immediately and are for a three (3) year term. They are Oscar Schafale of Marion and Albert B. Isley of Jewett.

Mr. Schafale is president of the Bank of Marion, and also president of the Carverville State and Savings bank. Mr. Schafale is one of the civic leaders of Williamson county and intensely interested in the agriculture of that area.

Mr. Isley, a farmer of Jewett in Jasper county, is the owner-operator of a large livestock and grain farm, is a past president of the Jasper County Farm Bureau as well as a member of the board of directors of the Greenup State bank. He has served on the county committee of the Farmers Home Administration in Jasper county.

These two men, together with Harold H. Schweitzer, Biggsville, Henderson county, Forrest M. Robbins, Amboy, Lee county, Marion D. Hildebrand, Carrollton, Green county, make up the Illinois State Advisory committee. Dr. W. G. Kammlade, Associate Director, Illinois Extension Service, University of Illinois, is an ex-officio member of the committee.

The first meeting of the new committee has been scheduled for April 1 and 2 in Champaign. The committee assists the state director to adapt national policies to local conditions and suggests ways to make the program more effective as well as its coordination with other agencies operating in the field of Agriculture.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans for the operation of farms, to enlarge and improve farms, and to construct, repair and improve farm buildings, including dwellings. These loans are for farmers who are unable to obtain their financing needs from other sources. The program is carried on throughout the State by local county offices serving one or more counties.

Christmas tree crop: 1. Use good quality trees and plant properly. 2. Shape the trees two to three times during growth. 3. Locate a market well in advance of maturity.

Scotch pine is one of the best varieties for Illinois because it will grow in a wide variation of soils. White and red pines are good varieties but require better soils.

These varieties may be ordered from the state nurseries for a few cents apiece. You can get order blanks and additional information from your local farm adviser.

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

Farmers at this season are beginning to watch with anticipation the progress of their pastures because the season is nearly here when livestock can be turned out to graze, cutting down the expense and work of winter-feeding.

Livestock finds just about as much pleasure in the anticipation of feeding on succulent new forage in spring pasture as does the farmer in being able to turn the animals into the fields. This is the time of year when the green plants are fresh, palatable, and contain a high percentage of digestible food materials. The dairy animal responds by giving a more bountiful flow of milk, and the steer calves that have been "roughed" through the winter become more sleek.

For the good of the pasture or meadow—and of the livestock—farmers well may be cautioned against turning the livestock into the fields too soon in the spring. First, turning in the animals when the fields are excessively wet may damage the turf and make the field rough for later use. Secondly, the grass and legume plants need a good starting growth before grazing begins. It is a good idea to let plants grow to nearly six inches in height in a good pasture before grazing so that the livestock will get plenty of forage and the plants will have sufficient vigor to come back rapidly after being grazed down. The idea of strip-grazing is highly recommended in pasture management circles.

When beef and dairy cattle are turned into legume pastures that are fresh and lush, the problem of bloating often arises. There are indications that some cattle are more susceptible to bloating than others, but that is not the problem of discussion here. There also is no hard and fast rule about the right time for grazing to avoid bloat when pasturing legume pastures. Some believe bloating is more likely if the plants are wet with dew in the morning or evening. Others have found bloating prevalent in the heat of the day. There still are many unanswered questions about the problem of bloat.

Pastures of straight legumes, especially alfalfa and clover, frequently cause grazing cattle to bloat. The condition arises from an accumulation of gases produced by the fermentation process that goes on in the rumen (or paunch) of the cow as it is feeding. Excessive extension of the rumen may cause paralysis of its walls. Pressure on vital body organs and absorption of toxic gases may cause death, if not relieved.

As a cow—particularly a hungry cow—greedily munches the fresh legume plants they are easily churned into a soft, pliable mass by the rumen which contains a considerable quantity of liquid for mixing and starting the breakdown process coarse forage which the cow may swallow.

Regular elimination of the fermentation gas by belching is necessary to prevent bloating. This belching often is retarded or stopped entirely by the softness of the mass of fresh legumes in the rumen. Consequently, the gas accumulates and builds up pressure.

Evidence points to stimulation of nerves in the rumen walls as an essential cause of belching. Blades of grass or stems of coarse roughage perform this important function of stimulation.

This points to several possibilities for preventing bloat in cattle which are turned onto legume pastures. One good preventive measure is to give cattle a good feed of dry hay before they are turned out to pasture. This keeps them from being too hungry and they will not gulp the fresh legume forage too greedily. It also puts some coarse forage into the rumen to keep the grazed material from packing too tightly and to keep stimulating the rumen walls so that the animal will continue belching. Providing dry hay in a rack or stack in the pasture where the animals may feed at will is a good practice.

Another good practice is to include such grasses as timothy, brome, or orchard grass with the legumes in the seeding mixture when planting forage crops for pasture. Allowing some dead grain stubble or dead forage to remain on the field so that the animal will pick some of it in grazing legumes will be helpful.

The Department of Commerce now rates America's export coal market in the billion-dollars-a-year class. Shipments of American coal abroad in 1956 reached a record high in excess of 48,000,000 tons.

Baby Pigs Gain Well on Creep Rations

Suckling pigs make economical gains on creep rations.

At this stage in their lives they'll gain a pound on less than two pounds of feed, says G. R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Provide a good creep ration when the pigs are a week to 10 days old, Carlisle suggests. Good gains during the suckling stage will mean heavier, healthier pigs at weaning time.

The one feed baby pigs like best is hulled oats. If you have or can get hulled oats, feed them and a pig supplement. Add shelled corn when the pigs have started to eat well. When whole oat kernels appear in the pigs' droppings, switch completely to shelled corn and supplement.

A good home-mixed creep feed might include 30 pounds each of hulled or rolled oats and coarse-ground corn, 10 pounds each of soybean meal, meat scraps or alfalfa leaf meal, sugar or dried molasses and dried skim milk or fish meal, 1 to 2.5 pounds of mineral mix and 1 gram of antibiotics. Locate the creep where it is convenient for the pigs to eat. In bad weather pigs will eat twice as much feed from an inside creep as from one located outside.

Dan Hastings, who had brought the first herd into Pawnee City, returned with a second trail herd of 3,000 scrawny cattle.

Chad Morgan, riding south of Pawnee City, saw the Hastings herd making the easy river crossing and recognizing Hastings, rode up to greet him.

Hastings shook his hand. "We been hearin' some strange stories on the trail, Mr. Morgan," he said. "First of all, is it true that you and Joe Jagger are no longer partners?"

"That's right, we decided to disagree."

"I'm sorry to hear that," Hastings said. "I thought you made a good team. Tell me, is it also true that you've got a city marshal now . . . and that Wild Jack Mason is the said marshal?"

"That also is true."

"And has he killed six men since putting on the badge?"

"Well," said Morgan, "he may have killed four men since I left town a half hour ago. Wild Jack is mighty handy with a six-gun, but up to a little while ago, his record was but two men killed. Since he became marshal, he killed a man before he was appointed." Morgan smiled without humor. "Of course, I am not counting the men he merely wounded. That might bring the total up to six."

"I don't like it, Mr. Morgan," said Hastings, shaking his head. "The word's gone up and down the trail that Wild Jack hates Texas people. We need to sell our steers, Mr. Morgan, but Texans are proud folks. They don't take kindly to being mauled and shot by men like Wild Jack, peace officers or no."

Later Morgan rode to the home of Axel Turnboom, the community's first farmer. "Now I plow," said Turnboom. "Maybe next month I plant the wheat. Winter wheat is good. The earth here very rich. I get maybe 40 bushels to acre."

Alfred Buffington was arranging a display of rakes, hoes and garden spades in front of his store when Morgan came along. He stepped to the edge of the sidewalk, looked quickly over his shoulder and said, "Wild Jack shot a man a few minutes ago."

"They carried him to Doctor Sykes' office."

"I suppose," Morgan said slowly, ly, "the man was creating a disturbance."

"Oh, sure," said Buffington. "He interfered with the marshal's fare playing."

"Is there a city ordinance forbidding the marshal to play cards?"

Buffington gave Morgan a look of disgust. "Our marshal keeps the peace of this town. With a gun."

"Can't the board of supervisors—of which you're a member—do something about Wild Jack Mason?"

"Judge Drake says no. The mayor has the sole authority to hire and fire the marshal. Judge Drake's office is a fee office. He gets one-half of all the fines imposed in the justice court. Wild Jack arrests a good many persons in Pawnee City. None has ever been acquitted. All have been found guilty and paid fines."

"Didn't the publisher of The Pawnee Lance bring Judge Drake to Pawnee City?"

"He did, but they are no longer the close friends they once were."

And then it was October. Two herds came in during the early days of the month and then for days the faro dealers in the five Pawnee City saloons played solitaire.

Wild Jack Mason was scarcely earning his salary and for a full week Judge Drake pocketed not a single fine. The cattle season of 1867 seemed to be over. Two of the saloons shuttered their windows. Merchants began to take inventory of their stocks, figured their profit for the season and found them very good. There would be five months, however, during which they would take in very little cash money. The winter would be cold and long.

Yet the spirit of optimism still prevailed and a group got together and had Charles Fessler print a few large placards, which were scattered about the town. The cards announced a celebration on Nov. 21 marking the end of the great cattle drives.

On Nov. 1, a farmer coming into town to do his shopping for the week, reported that a herd of Texas cattle was making the river crossing south of town.

No one paid any attention. The last trail herd had come in two weeks ago; there would be no more. It was too late in the year. Morgan had had a partition built in the real-estate office, reducing the size of the office, but giving him a private compartment at the rear, which was 20 feet wide and 10 feet deep. He still used the cot, but had bought a couple of chairs, a small table and a washstand on which stood a pitcher and bowl. There was a small mirror on the wall above the washstand and he was standing before this, shortly after seven, stripped to the waist, shaving, when the street door banged.

A voice shouted, "Hey, Yank! I'm back!"

Morgan exclaimed in sudden pleasure, and whirling away from the washstand, stepped toward the door leading to the front. He forgot, for the moment, that there was lather on his face, that he held a razor in his hand and that he was stripped to the waist.

"Reb!" he cried.

"Yippee!" shouted Cass Simcoe. She threw her arms around him and hugged him.

Begin Search for Outstanding Youth For Bravery, Service

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton today began a state-wide search for Illinois youngsters who performed unusual acts of bravery or outstanding service during 1956.

Young Illinois citizens who demonstrated courage and thoughtfulness are to be considered for state-wide and national recognition. Governor Stratton, in cooperation with the Young American Medal committee of the U. S. Department of Justice, is requesting information concerning candidates for the national awards.

The medals, to be awarded by the President of the United States, are the Young American Medal for Bravery and the Young American Medal for Service.

Candidates must not have reached their 19th birthday at the time of the act of bravery or service, and the awards are for performance during the 1956 calendar year. Not more than two medals in each classification are awarded in any one year.

To facilitate selection of nominees, Governor Stratton has designated Director Joseph D. Bibb of the Department of Public Safety to screen the merits of each candidate.

MISS JUDITH THOMAS will be the young evangelist for a Youth revival to begin Sunday at the First Apostolic church. Services will begin each evening at 7:30 and there will be special music and singing. Rev. Willard Fritts is the pastor.

I am a candidate for the office of Constable in the election to be held on Tuesday, April 2nd, 1957.

I am the son of the late Joseph F. Watson of Galatia Township. I was born and reared on the farm in the Ebenezer community and have always had to work hard for a living.

I have never been arrested or had to pay a fine! During World War Two I spent eighteen months in the service of the U. S. Army and 9½ months of this time was served overseas.

I have worked for the State of Illinois as guard at the Menard prison and Joliet prison for a period of four years. I feel that I am qualified to hold the office that I am seeking.

Due to me having to work every day, it will be impossible for me to see each voter personally, but anything said or done in my behalf will be deeply appreciated, and I earnestly solicit your VOTE.

Robin Roberts Goes Nine Innings in 5-4 Victory; Braves Trip Cardinals, 6-1

By United Press
Robin Roberts is ready for his eighth straight opening day assignment and a season that'll show whether he's still one of baseball's super stars.

The powerful right-hander demonstrated that Friday when he became the first Philadelphia Phillies pitcher to go nine innings en route to a 5-4 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Roberts held the White Sox to seven hits and was in trouble only in the fourth inning when two singles, a walk and Sherman Lollar's homer produced all their runs.

Warren Hacker, Birdie Tebbetts' No. 1 reclamation project, also went the distance Friday when he pitched the Cincinnati Redlegs to a 7-2 decision over the Washington Senators.

Milwaukee Braves made it seven wins in their last eight games when they beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-1. Joe Adcock walloped a homer and single to drive in four runs. Chet Nichols and Gene Conley combined to limit the Cardinals to only three safeties.

The New York Yankees squared their "Spring World Series" at two games each with a 4-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron each hit his first homer of the spring for the world champions while Duke Snider homered for the Dodgers.

Herb Score and Cal McLish pitched two-hit ball that enabled the Cleveland Indians to beat the Boston Red Sox, 7-1. Chico Carrasquel and Al Smith homered for the Indians and Ted Williams smashed a 400-footer off Score for his second round-tripper of the spring.

The New York Giants clinched the Cactus League title when they beat the Baltimore Orioles, 4-2, to make their spring record 13-6.

Dale Long and Lee Walls connected for eight-inning homers off Steve Gromek as the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied to beat the Detroit Tigers, 6-5.

Eddie Winick and Joe Macko hit homers as the Chicago Cubs scored an 8-2 victory over their Memphis farm hands and the Kansas City Athletics downed their Buffalo farm club, 6-3, in other games.

B52 Explodes In the Air; Two Crewmen Killed

SKIATOOK, Okla. (AP) — A giant B52 Stratofortress exploded in air Friday, killing two crewmen and raining burning wreckage over the countryside, barely missing the middle of little Skiatook.

Two of the crew of four parachuted to safety and the others went down with the plane. They were pulled from the fuselage and cockpit.

One of those parachuting, co-pilot Charles P. Craven, 34, of Wichita, Kan., suffered a fractured skull and was believed in critical condition. The other, technical observer Earl C. Reed, 30, also of Wichita, was unhurt.

The dead were identified as Ross B. Patrick, 37, the pilot, of Wichita, Kan., and John W. McCort, 32, navigator, from Mulvane, Kan., near Wichita.

All four aboard the plane were civilians from the Boeing aircraft plant at Wichita. The plane was on a test flight.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area of the northeastern Oklahoma countryside, missing the main section of Skiatook by half a mile and dropping chunks of debris on at least one house. No one on the ground was reported injured.

About 40 plate glass windows were shattered in Skiatook, 15 miles from Tulsa. Sheriff's officers set up an all-night vigil to prevent looting.

Baseball Team to Practice Sunday

Members of last year's team are asked to report plus any new players who wish to try out for the team.

Wilt Breaks Four Lovellette Records

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain broke four of Clyde Lovellette's 19 individual school records during the 1956-57 season. In his sophomore campaign, Chamberlain set school records scoring in one game 52 points, season average 29.6 points, most field goals in one game 20, and rebounds in a season 510.

LAWYERS' PREXY — Charles S. Rhyne, Washington, D. C., attorney, has been nominated next president of the American Bar Association. At 44, he is the youngest man ever to hold the post.

Deer Tumbles Truck in Ditch; Driver Injured

KARBERS RIDGE, Ill. — W. H. Hogg, of near Rudement, is one man who sincerely wishes deer in the Shawnee National Forest, would stay far back away from roads in the shadows of the Ozarks.

Because a deer strayed onto a Forest blacktop highway Friday at 9 a. m., Hogg is in his home with facial lacerations and possibly several fractured ribs.

The huge gravel truck Hogg was driving now lies with wheels skyward down a 20-foot embankment well away from the highway where it spun, end over end, when Hogg tried to avoid striking the animal.

The deer? It closely resembled deer-burger after the big truck pinned it to the blacktop and rolled over it.

Marion Student Ordered to Jail

MARION, Ill. (AP) — A high school sophomore sat in jail today, adamant in his refusal to apologize to a teacher for threatening to kill her.

County Judge A. R. Cagle said the 15-year-old youth would remain in a cell until he decided what to do with him.

In a court appearance Friday, the lad admitted he had threatened to kill Mrs. Danny Wales Thursday "if she laid her hands on me."

Cagle suggested that he apologize to the teacher, but the boy refused.

"I just won't obey her," he insisted.

School authorities told a different account of the incident than the youth did. The boy said he had paused to relax during his reading in the school study hall when Mrs. Wales asked what he was doing. When he replied "Nothing," she snarled at him to "get busy."

When he defied her, he said, the teacher tugged at his shirt, ripping it, and ordered him to the principal's office.

"I'll kill you if you lay your hands on me," he warned her. But officials said the youth was industriously taking his desk apart when Mrs. Wales spoke to him. They defended her action as necessary to preserve order among the 185 other students in the hall.

The boy had been kicked out of class at least six times this year, authorities said, and was on probation for committing a series of burglaries with other youths at the junior high school.

Power Mower Plunges Into Pool, Yardman is Killed

MIAMI (AP) — Authorities said today that a 70-year-old yardman was killed when a power mower plunged into the deep end of a home swimming pool.

Police said William Allen either died from drowning or of a heart attack.

Allen was mowing a large lawn when the mower ran out of control. The mower jumped the side of the pool. Allen's body was found in eight feet of water, his hands still grasping the controls.

Police said a swath cut across the grass by the mower indicated it went out of control. There was also a report that the elderly man recently had been bothered by "black-outs."

East and West Cage Stars Meet In Charity Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — A country-wide television audience probably will see the National Basketball Association's No. 1 draft selection in action today when Charley Tyra of Louisville leads the East against Southern Methodist's Jim Krebs and other West Stars in a charity game.

The Madison Square Garden contest, which annually helps the New York Herald Tribune send about 12,000 tenement kids to summer camps, will be televised by CBS at 1:30 p. m., CST.

The East, a four-point favorite, has the bulk of the season's most publicized college talent. It has All-America Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina's undefeated NCAA champions. It has Grady Wallace, the South Carolina All-America who won the major college scoring title with a 31-point average. It has Ken Hammond of West Virginia Tech, who led all collegians with a 34.9-point average.

But TV fans would be wise to keep a sharp watch on Tyra and Krebs, two 6-8 huskies who tote far less press notices than Rosenbluth and Wallace. Scouts for the NBA clubs will be at the game to watch the cream of the senior college basketball crop in action.

Stefko Trial to Begin April 10 At Shawneetown

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill. — Old Shawneetown Mayor Paul Stefko will come to trial April 10 on one or two of four charges against him. However, by agreement, that day is set aside for selection of a jury only. Testimony is not scheduled to start until April 11 to allow one of Stefko's attorneys, State Sen. Glen Jones of Harrisburg, to return from Springfield.

In Friday's hearing White County Judge Max Endicott, who replaced Gallatin County Judge Joe Hale on a change of venue, granted a petition filed by Stefko's attorneys, Jones and William Phillips of Ridgway, to withdraw Stefko's waiver of jury trial, signed March 22. The withdrawal was granted because Stefko testified he had waived jury trial without advice of counsel or of the court.

The two Stefko attorneys then filed writs to quash all four counts against him.

They claimed the two resisting arrest informations were ambiguously written.

Judge Endicott agreed that a semi-colon was evidently misplaced in each charge but overruled the quash motion after allowing Gallatin County State's Attorney Alton Grear to move the semi-colon and file an amended information.

To this new information Stefko pleaded innocent and the case was continued "until further order of the court."

The writ to quash the counts of aiding a prisoner was overruled but a notice to elect was taken under advisement until the trial date.

In this notice defense attorneys claim that Stefko couldn't have both aided an escape and rescued a prisoner and the state must decide which charge to press.

State's attorney Greer claimed that it was both possible and logical for Stefko to have aided an escape and rescued a prisoner at the same time.

Trial on either one or both of these charges was set for 9 a. m. April 10 and a 24-member jury panel was ordered back on that date.

Stratton Announces Third Annual State Park Photo Contest

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Cash prizes totaling $500 plus vacations in Illinois state parks will be awarded to winners in the third annual Illinois state parks photo contest, Governor William G. Stratton said today in an announcement of 1957 competition for amateur photographers.

Official entry blanks for the photo contest will be available at all state parks and memorials. The state Division of Department Reports and the Division of Parks and Memorials will cooperate in conducting the contest.

Eldorado High School Basketball Letters Awarded at Banquet

Ten Eldorado high school basketball players, including eight seniors, were awarded varsity letters at the annual basketball banquet held at the ETHS cafeteria Friday night.

The varsity awards were made by Head Coach Al Adams to Don Kingery, Richard Overton, David Coontz, John Wettaw, Gary Cawthon, Web Mosby, Ben Dempsey and Marty Fequay, all seniors; Leonard Willis, a junior and sophomore Thornton Davis.

Other guests at the banquet included members of the sophomore and freshman squads, Basketball Queen Faye Cheek and members of her court—Myra Cox, Judy Bramlett and Barbara McCallister—cheer leaders, members of the Board of Education and parents of the players.

Coach Adams also revealed Overton was the free throw shooting champion for the year with a .655 percentage and he was presented with the free throw trophy. The trophy remains at the school and each year the champion's name is engraved on the plate.

Other Letters Awarded

Adams, in reviewing the varsity season, stated that won-and-lost wise the season wasn't a success, the team winning 10 and losing 16, but he believed the boys hustled all the way and above all were good sports. "Not one technical foul was called against an Eldorado player or member of the coaching staff during the season," Adams declared.

Laffoon and Robinson, who played with both the freshman and sophomore teams, also received freshman letters, along with Rex Holman, Steve Prince, Mike Gramum, Larry Hart and Phillip Newton, manager. These letters were presented by Coach Jim Ridden.

The three coaches received gifts from their respective squads.

W. A. Knoop, ETHS principal, was master of ceremonies and the invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Eddie Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Hawks, Celtics Open Final Drive For Pro Title

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics opened their final drive for their first National Basketball Association championship today, meeting the fired-up St. Louis Hawks in a nationally televised game at the Garden.

The classy Boston team, paced by playmaker Bob Cousy, rookies Tom Heinsohn and Bill Russell and Dick Hemric, were an eight-point favorite among the local oddsmakers.

But the last-minute return to full strength of St. Louis ace Bob Pettit could make bums of the bookmakers. Pettit was hampered through the semi-final playoff with a broken wrist but removed the cast Friday and was reported physically fit.

The tap-off was set for 1:30 p. m. (CST) in the first game of the best of seven series.
